INTRODUCTION

Remember all the hurried, frantic people you've seen during the past year? Remember the boy with the bushy hair, bloodshot eyes, and twitching cheek who kept mumbling, "Got to finish that article! Got to, got to!" or the girl with dozens of tiny pictures who kept saying, "John Williams! Or was it William Johnson? or . . . uh . . . hummmm!" Those were Tattler reporters and workers, and you are now looking at the results of their efforts.

Of course it is traditional to produce a high school yearbook, but we feel that this is a very good tradition; for in days to come, you will be able to use it to open the doors of the past and walk down the corridors of your high school memories. As an underclassman, this book will help you become better acquainted with the activities that the school offers. If you are a senior, it will provide memories of the friends you may be seeing for the last time. Thus, this book will become a priceless treasure for all students at P. J. Jacobs High School.

For these reasons, we think you will enjoy the 1960 Tattler.

The mainspring
The gears that guide and direct
The hands that tell the time

If we think of our school as an intricate watch, our superintendent and principal would be considered the delicate mainspring. Our faculty, who have advanced their educations, are like the complicated gears of a timepiece, skillfully guiding and directing our learning. Students who give up their free time in school to make the regular operations of the day efficient are like hands pointing to the hour of the day. When we put all these people together we find. .

"What makes our school tick."

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Moldenhauer

As the march of time ushers out one decade and brings forth the beginning of another, there seems to be a greater emphasis placed on the role of the education of the individual in relation to the national welfare. This always happens in time of national crisis, and it can be accepted by all when there is achieved a better concept of what makes for national security in the long run.

It is hoped that we never move in the direction of meeting the present world challenge by lowering our ideals to any less worthy goal than the development of the individual as a person and as a good responsible citizen. We may well accomplish this net result by a system of values that leads to that end.

Without the scientist and the engineer we are lost in the modern world. But without a sense of direction stemming from poets, philosophers and spiritual leaders we are even more certainly lost. When science and social conscience meet in one individual we have true greatness.

It is our hope that the balance in educational opportunities and experiences here in P. J. Jacobs High School helps each graduate towards that greatness which will bring about true world harmony.

Best wishes to the class of 1960.

A. Moldenhauer
Superintendent

I should like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to the senior class of 1960 for the splendid record you have made in our school the past four years. Your class as a group, and particularly as individuals, have contributed much to bring honor to the name of P. J. Jacobs High School, and we are grateful for this.

Many of the class members will continue on in school, others will seek employment in business and industry, some will enter the armed services or other fields of endeavor. Whatever you choose to do, we of the teaching staff feel that your preparation in our school will aid you in doing a better job in carrying out your duties and responsibilities. We are proud to have had a part in helping you to prepare for your future living.

Best wishes and good luck,

BOARD OF EDUCATION

The increasingly complex and mobile society of today makes it virtually impossible for school boards any longer to operate effectively in isolation. They need the benefit of a pooled experience, an informed public and a broader outlook toward public education in the state and in the nation as the surest means of continuing the strength and freedom of our American way of life.

The Board of Education in Stevens Point tries to maintain a continual awareness of its responsibilities towards the desired goals of the community's schools. An educated and informed citizenry with a full understanding of the school's purpose aid greatly in providing the desired type of educational program.

As our graduates mature into adult citizens, they too will need to continue to have a live interest in public education. Your school and community background will aid in qualifying you for that role in community leadership.

We congratulate the Class of 1960.

CHAPTER 3

THE HANDS THAT TELL THE TIME

Early in the morning we rise with the ringing of the alarm clock. Minutes later, the buzzer on the toaster notifies us that our toast is sufficiently browned. A quick glance at our watch tells us we'll have to run to catch the bus to school. When we reach the school, we pull the cord which rings the bell and tells the bus driver we wish to get off.

Now we find ourselves just outside the school building. When we pull open the huge doors, we will enter another part of our world, a world of ringing bells and ticking clocks. Here the students march through their four years of high school which fly past like the swift hands of a clock. But just what goes on past these big heavy doors? Let's step inside and see what happens during a typical school day and find out just what makes our school "tick." We can do this by following through a school day and watching what goes on behind the scenes.

With the ringing of the 8:25 bell, the few stragglers left in the hall rush breathlessly to their respective home rooms. Of all the rooms in school, thirty-two are occupied by home rooms. The students sit in each, listening attentively to the morning announcements as they come over the little box on the wall known as a P. A. speaker. This is the period of the day known as home room.

On the third floor, above the east stairs, lies the attendance office. There Mr. Kuhl's crew keeps the records of absences, files these records, and keeps the other charts and related facts in order. Receiving little glory, these self-sacrificing students occupy an important position in our school.

The importance of the attendance workers is three-fold. First of all, they find students that are skipping school, to remind them pleasantly that they must correct their little faux pas.

Secondly, they keep records to reveal discrepancies caused when absent-minded teachers forget to mark a student absent or forget to require a make-up slip.

Finally, the attendance workers note every prolonged absence, compile the student's assignments, and take them, along with his books, to the student. Thus the old truant officer's duties have been magnified into a service for the students.

We will spend the first hour of the day on the second floor in the very well-equipped high school library. Under the supervision of Mrs. Moe, the library workers help run our library efficiently. These busy assistants spend at least one period during the day working in the library. They perform such jobs as checking out books, returning books to their places, making out fines, finding books needed by different teachers for reserve, typing, filing material, and taking roll call of the students assigned to the library. As a reward for their time and effort, they receive valuable work experience and knowledge of the library, extra curricular points of the National Honor Society, and their picture in the Tattler.

During the second hour, or during any other hour of the day, students who have free periods may help the teachers and relieve them of some of their unpleasant tasks. This group of students is known as the teachers' assistants and secretaries. They act as student secretaries by typing out tests and correcting the horrible things, marking homework, figuring averages, recording grades, and running various errands. Their work requires a lot of time, but at the same time they receive experience and can pick up ideas which may help them in the future, especially if they plan to become teachers. They also are rewarded with extra-curricular points for the National Honor Society. Certainly a salute goes out to the teachers' assistants who help the busy teachers with their work.

The ringing of the bell announcing the end of the second hour causes a pandemonium in the halls as the students rush to their third hour classes.

Many of the teachers choose to use visual aids in teaching their courses. Each year a number of boys elect to be a part of the Visual Aids department. They give up their study halls in order to make movies a pleasant time for all the students.

In the fall they are taught how to operate the slide and movie projectors, as well as the opaque projector. They are responsible for the maintenance of all the equipment. Two girls work as secretaries in the office and they order films, record on a chart the time and room for each showing, and send the film out again. The adviser for this organization is Mr. Wallin.

Now let's dash down the hall and look in on a meeting of the school's safety council. Safety is an important factor in this day and age of clocks and stop watches, and the police cadets are a group of boys who promote safety around P. J. Jacobs High School. This hard working organization performs such duties as checking the parking of cars and bicycles, assigning parking places in the parking lot behind school, keeping a check on students who might fight, reckless drivers, and eliminating any other safety hazards that may exist around school. In the spring the Safety Council members assist the city police in sponsoring the all-city police cadet picnic at Iverson Park. With their adviser, Mr. Glasbrenner, the Safety Council deserves credit for making P. J. Jacobs High School a safer place to attend school.

Those students who have noon hour classes or who live a great distance from school, usually eat in the cafeteria at noon. The federal government has agreed to give schools, like P. J. Jacobs, aid for their hot lunch program if the schools in turn follow certain government regulations. All meals must be balanced and must contain specified types and amounts of food. Menu planning and preparation of the meals are the specialties of Mrs. Porter and her assistant, Mrs. Klestinski. Helping them in the kitchen and dining room are Arlene Obremski, Marian Kontney, Jeanette Lila, Irene Suskie, Diane Clussman, Bernice Kizewski, Joan Sargent, Janice Sargent, Judy Morton, Corrine Krusa, Barbara Liebe, and Jane Desmond.

After the noon hour, everyone is ready to begin the fourth hour with a full stomach. On this particular day, those students who are elected to represent the student body on the Student Council are excused from their regular classes to attend a meeting of the Council.

The Student Council works with the faculty in making policies of our school and establishing many of the rules and regulations which govern our daily life. It is composed of one elected representative from each of the thirty-two home rooms, along with four carry-over members who provide a nucleus of experience. The officers for this year are James Otterlee, president; George Hager, vice-president; and Helen Vaughn, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Mentink is the adviser.

This group meets about once every two or three weeks to carry out such projects as last year's Code of Ethics, or this year's re-evaluation of Homecoming. Each year Homecoming is the main project of the Council. They also sponsor clothing drives, publicize Education and Brotherhood Weeks, and sponsor dances throughout the year. Once the Student Council makes a decision, it is submitted to the principal, discussed with the schoolboard, and put before the student body for a vote. If it is accepted, "the bill becomes a law".

Again the ringing of the bell, this time signifying the end of the fourth hour, sends the halls into a mass confusion of students rushing to their fifth period classes. For many of the rural students, this is the last hour of the day.

During the entire day, there have been students sitting in chairs in various spots in the halls. Curiosity would prompt one to ask about these people who seem to know exactly what they are supposed to do. Actually, the answer is simple: a school resembles an army in which the teachers attack ignorance in the students, and in which the students attack their books. As every army has its guards and messengers, so we have ours, called the hall monitors. These people serve for a semester, patrolling the halls. Their job is to carry messages between the classrooms, to collect attendance slips, to help visitors, and to do many other numerous, important tasks.

Although not really a club, the hall monitors do have officers. Fredrick Reichardt is president; Arlyn West, vice-president; and Jerome Bodzislaw is secretary-treasurer. Mr. Hammer is the adviser and coordinator of these workers.

At the end of the sixth hour, the last bell of the day rings. The hours of the day have sped by, and soon the students will be ready to begin a new day. And so it goes, day after day, week after week, and year after year, until finally the day for graduation arrives. It is then that high school students step into a new world of clocks and bells. Now we will be on our own and will have to keep up with our own time regulations. But again and again we will look back on the four years we spent in high school and remember how we successfully managed to keep up with all the bells and the swift flying hands of the clock. We will remember the "Halls of Ivy" as we turn to walk down, with time, the long, narrow, hall of ivy of life.

STATE CHAMPIONS

Sue Holthusen, under the guidance of Mrs. Ardyce Hebal, was the fourth student since 1955 from P. J. Jacobs High School to win the State Cherry Pie Baking Crown. Sue's victory shows why we feel it is almost necessary to set up a pie assembly line to meet the law of supply and demand!

For the first time in the history of this school, the Debate Team went to the debate contest on the state level and walked away with all the honors. This team of hard working boys, who were coached by Mrs. Ruth Lewis, deserve this reward for the numerous, long hours they spent in preparation.

S. Sprada, L. Burress, W. Jensen, E. Worzella,

As we leave the familiar halls of P. J. Jacobs, we feel a bit sad to look back on the four wonderful years we have spent here. Thinking of when we came as freshmen makes us remember how timid and frightened we were. Our sophomore year found us courageous enough to participate in some activities. As we entered our junior year, we felt distinguished to be considered "upper classmen." During our senior year, we regretfully found ourselves doing everything for the last time. Homecoming, Fair and Supper, and our class play, The People vs. Maxine Lowe came and went. Now with all these memories and experiences behind us, in addition to the fine guidance and education we have received, we feel ready to tighten our belts and step out into the world.

JUNIORS--Class of 1961

R. Cook, F. Reichardt, P. Thompson, E. Higgins.

This has been an exciting year for the Junior Class of 1960. They entered the doors of P. J. Jacobs in the fall with a new air about them, realizing that they were now upperclassmen. Their first thrilling experience was receiving their cherished class rings, proof that they were really upperclassmen.

The Fair and Supper was a success for this class as a group of junior boys won first place for their skit which was a take-off on the Orchestis Club show.

Spring brought more exciting activities such as the Junior Class Play which was enthusiastically accepted by all. The highlight of the year was the Junior Prom at which Frederick Reichardt, the class president, crowned his queen.

SOPHOMORES--Class of 1962

P. Mayrack, J. Bodzislaw, J. Sands, M. Reichardt,

As the Sophomores entered the halls of P. J. Jacobs in September, they were aware that the coming year had a lot in store for them. They gained admittance into many new clubs and actively participated in them all.

For the boys, the B-Squad football and basketball teams offered competition, while some of them even saw action in varsity play. Many of the boys became active in the other teams on the athletic scene.

The girls did their share of work for the clubs they had joined. The cheerleaders led the teams to rousing victories with their full time backing and good sportsmanship.

Besides joining the many clubs open to them, the sophomores also participated in the successful College and Career Nights.

It is certain that this fine class has a great future in store.

FRESHMEN--Class of 1963

J. Horel, J. Leary, K. Timm, C. Nason,

The qualities of freshmen reveal themselves once in a lifetime and this year's Freshmen were no exception. Blithely and expectantly they walked through the gates that led them to a new life. Sports, music, dance and dramatics opened new vistas to many. Class elections in which John Leary was elected president; Kathryn Timm, vice-president; Jacquelyn Horel, secretary; and Charles Nason, treasurer, gave them their first taste of high school competition. Later, exciting athletic competition intermingled with music concerts and exotic formals heightened their school spirit. Every action of the Freshmen indicated a bright future for them.

Classroom Carry-overs
A Tendency Toward Talent
Entertaining and Educational Events
Recognition Received

Classroom carry-overs are organizations that supplement our work in the classroom, so we join these clubs for further learning and to display our talents. We can also make use of our abilities in other school sponsored events which are educational as well as entertaining to all. If we are successful in our classes and in extra curricular activities, we may become members of the honor clubs in school. Since all the organizations in this book take no class time but only our free time, we say that they are. . . .

"Above and beyond the call of duty."

CLASSROOM CARRY-OVERS

The group of future teachers is made up of senior girls who are interested in gaining experience for teaching in the future. They sign up in the high school office in the spring of their junior year and are selected in the following fall. For one period every day, these girls help the kindergarten teachers at Jefferson and Garfield schools. Their supervising teachers are Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Borden. The girls perform such duties as taking roll call, reading stories, teaching games, and supervising play. In reward for the time and help they give, they are paid fifty cents a day.

The Future Business Leaders of America is a national organization whose members try to improve home and community and create interest in business occupations. FBLA is designed particularly for business students and students who are looking forward to careers in business.

Members of FBLA learn many business procedures, such as how to engage in individual and group business enterprises and how to hold office and direct the affairs of the group.

For a girl who is well versed in the field of cooking and homemaking, look for a member of the Junior Homemakers of America. This is an organization of girls who have taken at least six weeks of home economics. Their meetings are in the evening and consist of a business meeting followed by a program. The programs are usually some phase of the study of home economics, such as demonstrations in interior decorating or putting on make-up, or perhaps it is a field trip to a furniture store to discover the tactics in wise buying. Other programs which are presented at monthly meetings include demonstrations on cake decorating, knitting and various skills that help to make a good homemaker.

The Future Farmers of America is a national organization for the boys who are enrolled in the agriculture classes in high schools. They try to develop competent, aggressive, rural agricultural leadership, to create more interest in the intelligent choice of farming occupations, to strengthen the confidence of the farm boy in himself and his work, and to advance vocational education in agriculture. The FFA is organized vocational education on a farm youth level.

There are four degrees of active membership based upon achievement: (1) Green Hand, (2) Chapter Farmer, (3) State Farmer, (4) American Farmer.

A Christmas Saturnalia portraying ancient Roman Christmas festivities was held during the Christmas Season. The Latin Club sponsored a pep assembly featuring gladiatorial combat between Stevens Point and its current opponent. The inspiring year was concluded with a Roman wedding at the annual spring banquet.

This year's officers were Imperator, Duncan Ragsdale; Senior Consul, Julia Sentman; Junior Consul, Elizabeth Jenkins; Praetor, George Harper; Scribe, Mary Kay Pearson; Aediles, Judith Anderson and Sue Reichardt. The club's adviser is Miss Scheffner.

The Slide Rule Club is a group of hard-studying students who make great sacrifices for mathematics. The club meets at 7:30 every Wednesday morning, and getting to school at that hour is indeed a sacrifice.

The club is exactly what the name implies. It spends the Wednesday mornings learning how to use a slide rule. In doing this, the students review mathematics, and in mastering this small calculating machine, acquire great advantages. Slide Rule Club members can save time in any mathematical situation when, by a few flicks of the wrist, they perform calculations that would require pages to write out.

Once again last fall the halls of P. J. Jacobs were filled with the familiar sounds of the music of the Panther Band under the direction of Mr. Rehfeldt. The highlights of the year began early, when in November, the Band was asked to play at the Milwaukee Teachers' Convention. They participated in the reading clinic and received high accolades for the performance.

The Christmas Season saw the Panther Band preparing for the annual Christmas Concert. It joined with the orchestra and the vocal groups to present a concert of high caliber and one which filled the audience with lively Christmas spirits.

One of the finest high school band concerts ever to be presented in Stevens Point took place when Mr. Rafael Mendez appeared with the Panther Band. Mr. Mandez, who hails from California, is known as the world's best trumpet player. The performance of Mr. Mendez and the Panther Band thrilled the audience which was packed into the gymnasium.

Many alumni returned for the Mendez performance and met as a group after the concert. They decided to meet each year in conjunction with the winter concert. So when the seniors graduate, they will be saying good-bye until next year when they will have the opportunity to reunite with friends and fellow band members.

The year was summed up with the annual music tournaments which take weeks of preparation.

"Music is his life!" This statement is certainly true when it comes to the life of Quentin Karlsrud, director of P. J. Jacobs' choir, chorus, Boys' Glee Club, Girls' Glee Club and the Dance Band. Perhaps many of you didn't even know that these music organizations existed.

The vocal section of our music department believes a beautiful lesson can be learned through music, the universal language. Each Christmas Season we await the afternoon when we are serenaded with carols by the choir. The Glee Clubs, and the chorus join in the Christmas spirit with the choir in presenting the annual Christmas concert.

This year the newly organized Boys' Glee Club joined in the numerous activities which the music department participates in throughout the year. They had concerts at the Kiwanis Club and other city organizations, at the college, the Emerson School, and the Campus School. However, not every activity was one in which the vocal group did all the entertaining; sometimes they joined together and went to hear other concerts presented by other music groups.

Mr. Karlsrud also found it his responsibility to provide music for the aftergame dances and sock hops which the school sponsored. He solved this problem with the aid of the P. J. Jacobs Dance Band. This group of musicians joined forces and came up with melodies which could set any foot tapping and any heart singing. The Dance Band also was called upon to open the 1959 Fair and Supper with a medley of tunes.

Mr. Karlsrud may be a busy man with his directing, but he is promoting music and fostering singing in an unsinging high school.

SENIOR ORCHESTRA

Whether your taste in good music favors baroque or modern, classical or romantic, this year's versatile senior orchestra would have pleased you. Unless your first hour class is on the third floor, you first heard this year's orchestra perform in the music department's annual Christmas concert. Their spring concert was another success and a wonderful follow-up to their first appearance.

The orchestra also provided background music for our school's seamstresses in their annual style review and appeared in the spring concert presented by the vocal department. Their help in our commencement exercises marked the close of a fruitful year for our orchestra.

The forensic organization in school offers the opportunity for interested students to perfect their speaking ability and a chance to enter in state-wide competition. The fields in forensics from which a student may choose include oratory, original or non-original; four-minute speaking, humorous or serious declamation; extemporaneous or interpretative reading and speaking.

Besides the speech contests, the forensic department sponsors after-game dances and participates in other school functions. The advisers of the group are Mrs. Costerisan, Miss Kostecki, Miss Nelson, Mrs. Stenzel, Mr. Hammer and Mr. Thompson.

Students who participate in debate develop speaking ability and the ability to think quickly and analytically. Each year our debate team participates in debate contests with teams from all over the state. To climax the season, teams work their way to the State Debate Tournament at Madison. This year the P. J. Jacobs debate team went to Madison and finished with an 8-0 record and won the championship trophy. This is indeed a fine reward for a hard-working team.

The enthusiastic girls in red, the loyal Panther-backers, are the members of the Pep Club. This organization was established to promote pep among the student body. The girls accomplish this by attending functions concerning our Panther teams and trying to encourage others to do the same.

Homecoming is always a big time for the Pep Club. This year two floats were entered in the "rain-out" parade. The Homecoming Queen was crowned with a glittering crown purchased by the Pep Club as a permanent crown.

Fair and Supper brought more activities for the organization. A typical bus ride to an out-of-town game was presented as the entry for the Pep Club.

PEP CLUB

Each year with the coming of the Christmas season, the school is buzzing with plans for the Christmas Formal which is sponsored by the Pep Club. This is the annual formal to which the girls ask the boys. With each passing year, the decorations are somewhat more elaborate and the eyes of the dancers just a bit more starry.

In the fall, the girls interested in joining the Pep Club are given "big sisters" who keep track of the prospective members' points. The new members are initiated at the annual spring banquet.

CAREER NIGHT

Career Night is open to freshmen, sophomores, and juniors so that they may find out something about the different careers that they may wish to follow. People from all walks of life give up one evening to come and discuss and explain the vocations which they have made their careers. As a result of Career Night, students find out the advantages and disadvantages of the careers they are interested in. By talking to people who are in the field which may be a possibility for a student, he can find out if he is suited for that type of work. Thus, by attending Career Night, students can truly get an insight into their chosen vocation.

COLLEGE NIGHT

Each year College Night offers an opportunity for students to gather information about prospective colleges. Representatives from several selected colleges came here one evening to discuss with sophomores, juniors, and seniors their problems concerning colleges and their choice of colleges. Each representative spoke about entrance requirements and about the curriculum and activities of the college in general. College Night is beneficial to all who attend in that it serves as a stepping stone for decisions which will affect the future of each individual.

It was a cloudy and gloomy and just another day of school. But wait! This was Homecoming! We jumped up, dressed in our Character Day costumes and hurried to school. The halls looked like a hide-away for beatniks, for that was the most popular costume of the day.

The typical Homecoming weather, cloudy and rainy, didn't halt the enthusiasm we felt that morning. Classes were unimportant. All we cared about was the result of the campaigns for Queen. The corridor walls had been plastered with clever signs, and the P.A. system was ringing with speeches. Then we voted. While we waited, we prayed that it would stop raining so we could have our parade. We did not want the hard work on the floats to be wasted.

Finally the three bells rang for the traditional assembly. We were so excited we almost ran to the gym. Eventually we squeezed through the doors into the gym. When everyone had quieted down, James Otterlee announced the Character Day winners. Frederick Mrozinski was named hobo "queen" and Daniel "Ozark" Newby was named hobo king. Sandra Tepp as "Little Black Sambo" was named the one most originally dressed. Sharing the lime-light were Mr. Kubsch and Mr. Otto, who were dressed as Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Everest. Then the cheerleaders led a cheer.

The big moment arrived when Arlyn West, captain of the Homecoming game, crowned Carol Smith 1959 Homecoming Queen. Marcia Karp and Carole Newby served as her court of honor.

The parade was cancelled, but the wet weather didn't dampen spirits at the bonfire and pep rally which were held Friday night. An informal dance followed in the gym. Our last prayer before sleeping that night was for clear, sunny skies under which to play the Saturday afternoon game.

This time our prayers were answered. The weather was perfect as we watched the Panthers defeat D. C. Everest. The Homecoming dance was well attended that evening as the 1959 Homecoming celebrations came to a close.

FAIR AND SUPPER

After weeks and weeks of practicing skits and campaigning for Flame and Dame, we find that the day of Fair and Supper is finally here. We begin the day with the annual Fair and Supper assembly. The assembly is climaxed with the announcement that Robert Zinda and Jeannine Sands have won the Panther Flame and Dame contest.

Between 5:00 and 7:15 P. M. the aroma of sausages and pancakes fills the halls of the school and coaxes hungry people to line up for their servings. When the seemingly endless line finally diminishes and the last huge appetite is satisfied, we know the student stage revue is about to begin.

As we hurry down to the gymnasium, we can hear the Panther Swing band entertaining the audience. This year the theme of the Fair and Supper is Panther Bulletin. Each act is introduced by one of the masters of ceremonies, Helen Vaughn, Lee Burrell and John Roth. A group of junior boys walks off with the first place prize with their parody on the Orchestral Show. A group of seniors takes second place and the Dramatic Club places third. The show is climaxed with a most impressive Senior Farewell. The seniors, dressed in red and black, come onto the stage humming the "Alma Mater" while a narrator tells the history of the Class of 1960. As this is completed, the seniors join their voices in the singing of the "Alma Mater" and close with a card section. Thus, the 1959 Fair and Supper comes to a close.

The evening is completed with the annual dance featuring the Flame and Dame.

And now, the big day draws to a close and the stars look down from the sky and twinkle a cherry, "See you next year!"

CHRISTMAS FORMAL

The walls of the gym were decorated with bright figures of Christmas sleighs, carolers, reindeer and colorfully decorated trees. The stage, covered with a mural of a scene from the bell tower of a church looking over a freshly snow-frosted city, gave a feeling of peacefulness. An thus, the "Holiday Mood" was set. This mood would last throughout the entire evening of dancing at the annual Christmas Formal sponsored by the Pep Club.

Weeks of planning went into this event. The girls worked long hours on the decorations and sacrificed soft hands for ones that got scratched from putting up boughs and wires.

Later that evening, when the lights were dimmed and dancers began to fill the floor, the memories of the tedious hours of decorating faded away and only the present seemed important. The highlight of the evening was the grand march. Then, while the last melody was playing, everyone knew they would remember this evening as they were "Dancing in the Dark."

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

CHAPTER 4

RECOGNITION RECEIVED

In this chapter we wish to spotlight students who have done outstanding jobs in their high school careers. One of the highest honor groups in school is the National Honor Society. The members of the National Honor Society, a nationwide-organization, are chosen on the basis of high scholarship, leadership, character, and service. There are many advantages to being a member of the society. First, the society conducts a scholarship program for senior members who thus have one more way to pave their way to college. Secondly, the honor society is a mark of outstanding qualities, and will be helpful in applications and recommendations in later life.

Juniors who have scholastic averages of 2.6 and 20 extra-curricular activity points are selected in February of each year, while seniors who have a 2.2 scholastic average and 20 extra-curricular activity points are selected both in October and February. The numerical average is determined by equating an "A" to three points, a "B" to two points, and a "C" to one point. Then the total points, divided by the number of semester points, give the grade average.

Mr. Lundquist is the faculty adviser.

Another annual event at P. J. Jacobs is the selection of qualified juniors to attend Badger Boys' and Girls' State. Delegates are chosen as to merit, scholarships, and leadership. Four boys and one girl receive the privilege of attending. All expenses are paid by sponsoring civic organizations.

Badger Boys' and Girls' States serve to educate Wisconsin youth in the functions of local and state government. For one week these mythical states run mock governments. Two parties are designated, each having the same sized membership. The week begins with the election of city and county officials. By midweek the Senate and Assembly are in session. Pep rallies and a State Convention are held by each party. There is spirited campaigning for the election of the delegates to Boys' Nation and Girls' Nation and the governors of each state.

Badger Boys' State is held each summer on the Ripon College campus and Badger Girls' State, at the University of Wisconsin.

Almost every field has its honor organization. In dramatics it is the Thespian Society. Thespian Troupe 1324 of the National Thespian Society climaxed its seventh successful year at its annual spring banquet. At this time new members were formally initiated, and outstanding dramatists received awards for outstanding performances in class plays.

Eight seniors began this year's program. In March ten new members were informally initiated into the troupe.

The National Thespian Society is an organization devoted to the advancement of dramatic arts in the high schools of America. It is an organization within the Dramatic Club. Membership and advancement are determined on a point basis. A minimum of ten points obtained by participating in the various dramatic activities of the school is required for membership.

Keeping in time with honoring students, the athletes of the school have their own organization. If you are in school on a Wednesday night, you must be a member of the "S" Club. Vaunting your letter jacket, you dash up the steps to study hall 214. The letter jacket, of course, has dirty sleeves, and possibly is patched, indicating to all that you are a veteran athlete. The study hall is a sea of red as you begin helping your buddies try to explode the room by sheer noise. Soon President James Otterlee tries to call the meeting to order, and Vice-President Fred Wolden helps him quiet the din to a gentle rumble. Frederick Reichardt, the treasurer, dismays everyone by calling for dues, while secretary James Pliska takes role. Of course, the advisers, Mr. Otto, Mr. Cardinal, and Mr. DeWitte, have something to say to help.

Although its meeting may seem disorganized, these actions are merely evidences of the group's energy. Recognizing that our goal should be a sound mind in a sound body, the club promotes athletics and scholastic attitudes. It does this by taking part in pep assemblies, Homecoming, and other activities, and by awarding a trophy each year to two outstanding senior athletes who are graded on athletic ability, scholastic ability, and attitude.

Coach Kubsch, Coach Cardinal

Because our team had to face three of the toughest teams — Wausau, Merrill, and Antigo — early in the season with several inexperienced players and with the limited use of Frederick Reichardt, they were slow in gaining badly needed confidence.

But although undermanned and outnumbered the boys never gave up. As the season went on much improvement took place and the much needed experience was gained. During the last few games we began to develop a very good offense, and we hope next year our defense will develop as well. With the following returning lettermen Reichardt, Thompson, Higgins, Galloway, in the backfield; Bostad, Rice, Martin, Peterson, Ragsdale, Malleck, Gibbs in the line; plus several Junior Varsity players and outstanding freshmen players, we believe next year's team will be a very spirited and scrappy Panther team.

SWIMMING

The moister elements of Panther sporting circles finned their way to a great season, in fact, the best season the swimming team has achieved since it was organized. Their excellent five win-one loss record climaxes an improving trend in the past several years, of which Coach William Otto and his boys are rightfully proud. This five-one record also marks the defeat of a tough Green Bay YMCA team, bitter and long standing rival of our Panther swimmers. The whole season was sparked with cooperative team effort — always a quality of a winning group like our swimming team.

BASKETBALL

Another Panther basketball season has ended. Our record of sixteen victories, seven losses may be considered a successful season, and a great amount of this success can be attributed to the fine cooperation of the administration, the faculty, and the tremendous backing of the student body.

The 1959-60 season was filled with many thrills. Defeating Rapids three times, once by 29 points, and ending a 13 game losing streak against Wausau were the highlights. We won our way to the Sectional, but an inspired Crivitz team delayed our trip to Madison.

Five seniors graduate from this year's team. We wish them the best of luck and success. Captain James Otterlee, James Pliska, Winfred Jensen, Ronald Disher, and Robert Zinda were definite assets to the squad. However, we look toward to the juniors to carry their spirit "Onward to Victory."

Continue success in basketball is our objective. Sacrifice and hard work will help us to attain this goal.

WRESTLING

After long hot hours of workouts on the mats gaining skill in the sport, hours spent grappling with each other and sweating hard to lose pounds, the '59-'60 wrestling squad was able to present Coach DeWitte with a winning average of better than .500 in their eleven meets. The six win, five loss record is not the Conference's best, but it is evidence of a tough, skillful crew. These gentlemen may be proud of fourth place conference standing, and the fact that two of their number battled all the way to conference championships in their weight classes: David Goetz at 145 pounds, and Michael Giese at 133 pounds. In the regional meet at Wisconsin Rapids, Chester Bekowski took second place in his weight class and qualified for the sectionals.

CHEERLEADERS

M. Schull, L. Hyland, S. Holthusen,
B. Thompson, H. Vaughn, C. Smith

Early in the fall, tryouts were held for the three cheerleading squads, Freshman, B-Squad and Varsity. The nervous girls lined up, each to lead a cheer in front of the faculty advisers who were to choose the girls who would make up the 1959-60 cheering squads. After the results were announced the next day, practice began for these hard-working, enthusiastic girls.

The duty of the cheerleader is to create pep and enthusiasm, lead cheers, and promote good sportsmanship. The Freshman and B-Squads led cheers at the Freshman and B-Squad games and appeared in some pep assemblies. The Varsity cheerleaders had the responsibility of leading cheers at pep assemblies, Homecoming, and football and basketball games.
